

Press Release

POLAR-Mohr is extending its product portfolio

The Hofheim-based company POLAR-Mohr takes over Dienst Verpackungstechnik

By taking over the machine builder which is located in Hochheim, POLAR is expanding its line of products significantly. The purchase of Dienst Verpackungstechnik had been prepared over the past weeks and months and was now completed by signing the sales agreements.

This purchase does not only fit perfectly into the strategic goals of POLAR-Mohr, but also meets Mr. Dienst's expectations. He wants to see his lifework continued and his succession to be settled. This solution complies with his wish to provide the best possible security for his employees and company locations.

The Dienst business produces machinery and systems for the automatic packaging of goods, so-called cartoning machines. Thanks to its industrial experience and knowledge of the global market and in connection with the systems and installations offered by the new subsidiary, which are extremely interesting from the technological point of view, POLAR-Mohr is expecting excellent chances for growth in the markets across the world.

Many renowned consumer goods companies, (especially in food manufacturing,) employ such packaging machines, for example when it comes to packing pizzas, chocolate bars, cereals, ice cream or other food into folded boxes at high speed. The enterprise enjoys an excellent reputation in the field of packaging technology and utilization rates have been continuously high for many years now.

Dienst Verpackungstechnik GmbH has its headquarters in Hochheim. This proximity to Hofheim was another substantial argument in favour of the investment. On one hand, it allows both firms to quickly and flexibly support each other in their day-to-day business operations. On the other hand, due to similar processes and structures in both companies there may be synergistic effects in some fields of business.

The Rhine-Main area is regarded as an attractive business location by both, POLAR and Dienst. This advantage can be further capitalized in the future and the new combination is a clear sign in this direction. Both enterprises are looking forward to their joint development.

Please visit also our website at www.polar-mohr.com

Walter Dienst, current shareholder of Dienst Verpackungstechnik, and Alfred Henschel, managing director of POLAR-Mohr (from left.), in front of a Dienst packaging machine